IIJ and Nippon TV to Establish a Joint Venture for Video Distribution Platforms

TOKYO—December 1, 2016—Internet Initiative Japan Inc. (IIJ, NASDAQ: IIJI, TSE1: 3774) and Nippon Television Network Corporation (Nippon TV) today announced that they have established a joint venture company, JOCDN Inc. (JOCDN) on December 1, 2016 to provide a content delivery platform specialized for video distribution within Japan. The new company will fuse IIJ's advanced technologies for large-scale distribution and Nippon TV's expertise in video distribution for providing a content delivery network (CDN) service that broadcasters and video content providers can use to reliably distribute high-quality video content. JOCDN will call out to all commercial broadcasters in Japan to participate in this service as well.

1. Background and objectives

The online video market in Japan is rapidly expanding with the growing prevalence of smart devices and the increasing speeds and capacity of communications infrastructure, and new providers are entering the market one after the other. As the amount of time spent on the Internet each day increases, especially for younger demographics, broadcasting companies are accelerating their responses to Internet distribution, and this market is expected to continue to expand further in the near future.

Within this context, IIJ—which has the largest Internet backbone networks in Japan and advanced operating technologies in distribution—and Nippon TV—which owns Hulu Japan, an online video service—arrived at the conclusion to work to provide a CDN service. The companies will also create the video content distribution market in Japan through their new technologies that will support the broadcasting and communications infrastructures of the future.

2. Overview of the joint venture

1. Company name: JOCDN Inc.
2. Address: Iidabashi Grand Bloom, 2-10-2 Fujimi, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo
3. Representative Directors:
Chairman: Koichi Suzuki (Chairman & CEO of IIJ)
President: Shunichi Shinozaki (Executive Vice President Assigned from President's Office, Nippon TV, to JOCDN Inc.)
4. Date of establishment: December 1, 2016
5. Capital: JPY 99 million
6. Shareholders: IIJ (50.0%), Nippon TV (50.0%)
7. Main business: Providing a video content distribution platform service for use within Japan, and building and operating broadcasting systems

3. Business

JOCDN's business activities will be kicked off in April 2017:

1. Providing CDN services for video content providers

JOCDN will provide a platform for reliable distribution of high-quality video content on a large-scale.

2. Developing technologies to support Japan's broadcast communications infrastructure

JOCDN will promote the development of new distribution technologies and platforms for the future.
